Introduction

The real estate industry's growth is linked to developments in the retail, hospitality and entertainment (hotels, resorts, cinema theatres) industries, economic services (hospitals, schools) and information technology (IT)-enabled services (like call centres) etc and vice versa. The total realty market in India is expected to touch US$ 180 billion by 2020.

India ranks third for the most LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design)-certified space globally, with nearly 12 million sq m. The LEED system is the most widely used rating system guiding the design, construction, operations and maintenance of green buildings.

Private equity (PE) funding has picked up in the last one year due to attractive valuations and low level of bank funding to the sector. Delhi NCR alone has already attracted PE investments of INR 80 crore (US$ 13.22 million) in first quarter of 2014. Moreover, with the government trying to introduce developer and buyer friendly policies, the outlook for the real estate sector in 2014 looks promising.

Market size

Recent years have seen the Indian real estate sector grow, especially the commercial real estate segment. According to a study by Knight Frank, Mumbai is the best city in India for commercial real estate investment, with returns of 12-19 per cent likely in the next five years. Bangalore and Delhi-National Capital Region (NCR) come second and third on the list, with returns of 12 per cent and 8-11 per cent respectively. Delhi-NCR was the biggest office market in India with 110 million sq ft, out of which 88 million sq ft were occupied.

The residential segment of real estate has also seen tremendous growth in recent years owing to the continuous growth in population, migration towards urban areas, ample job opportunities in service sectors, growing income levels, rise in nuclear families and easy availability of finance.

In the residential segment, the number of new launches in the first quarter of 2014 has increased by 43 per cent at 55,000 units across eight major cities. Bengaluru recorded the largest number of units launched, an increase of 22 per cent at 16,838 units, followed by Mumbai and Chennai with new launches at 10,698 units and 7,436 units with a growth rate of 93 per cent and 191 per cent respectively, during the first quarter.

With the government allowing 100 percent foreign direct investment (FDI) in this sector, the number of foreign firms owning real estate projects in India has also increased. The construction development sector, including townships, housing, built-up infrastructure and construction-development projects garnered total FDI worth US$ 23,587.25 million in the period April 2000-June 2014.

Market size of real estate in India

The market size of real estate in India is expected to increase at a CAGR of 11.2 per cent during FY2008 – 2020.

Investments

With the rise in demand for office as well as residential space, the Indian real estate sector has witnessed high growth in recent times. Some of the major investments in the real estate sector in the recent past are as follows:

- ◆ Piramal Fund Management has launched the Indiareit Apartment Fund which seeks to buy residential apartments in the Tier I market, and has kept aside a corpus of Rs 350 crore (US$ 57.86 million) for the same.
- ◆ US-based PE company Blackstone plans to step up its presence in the residential segment and has lined up about INR1,000 crore (US$ 165.32 million) to invest in residential projects across Indian metros. Its first investment in the residential sector was in the Chennai project of Bengaluru-based Ozone Group.
- ◆ Panchshil Realty and Blackstone have bought a majority stake in Express Towers, for around INR 870 crore (US$ 143.83 million).
- ◆ Mr Donald Trump plans to extend his company, Trump Organisation's global footprint into India and invest in two realty deals. Both the deals involve ultra-premium luxury projects, which will be owned, developed and promoted by local developers.
- ◆ Mahindra Group has entered affordable housing through its property development arm Mahindra Lifespaces (MLDL). MLDL plans to launch two housing projects in Boisar near Mumbai and Avadi in Chennai with the newly created business vertical Happiest.
- ◆ Canada-based Brookfield Property has entered into an agreement to acquire Candor Investments, a subsidiary of Unitech Corporate Park (UCP), for about INR 2,000 crore (US$ 330.66 million).

Government Initiatives

The Government of India has announced a host of measures to spur the real estate sector, which include an allocation of INR 7,060 crore (US$ 1.16 billion) for the development of 100 smart cities, a reduction in the size of projects eligible for FDI from 50,000 sq m to 20,000 sq m, and having the minimum investment limit for FDI to US$ 5 million.

A committee on Streamlining Approval Procedure for Real Estate Projects (SAPREP) was constituted by the Ministry of Housing & Urban Poverty Alleviation (MHUPA) to streamline the process of seeking clearances for real estate projects.

The governments of different states have also taken various measures to facilitate the growth of this sector. For instance, the Punjab government has proposed to exempt residents having houses with an area of up to 125 square yards from paying the levy and delink tax payment from collector rates. It has also proposed to keep vacant plots out of the ambit of property tax which will be implemented during 2014-15.

The Indian Green Building Council (IGBC) has joined hands with the US Green Building Council (USGBC) to strengthen their association for the next 10 years to focus on areas of knowledge exchange and work on the green building movement in India. The USGBC also plans to expand its support for LEED in India.

Road Ahead

The Indian real estate sector continues to be a favoured sector for investments from international as well as private investors. In the upcoming years, the residential as well as commercial segments of the real estate industry is set for major growth, aided in no small part by the government's plans and initiatives to boost this sector.

Excise duty reduction on cement and steel will lower project costs and expansion of the interest subsidy on loans will boost developers' interest in this segment. Moreover, tax measures such as increasing the limit of interest deduction on home loans will provide necessary motivation to consumers to increase buying activity and revive demand in the value and affordable segment. Further, demand for space from sectors such as education and healthcare has opened up ample opportunities in the real estate sector.

Introduction

India is currently one of the world's most attractive investment destinations. With the opening up of foreign direct investment (FDI) in several sectors, the country is an eye-catching destination for overseas investors. The relaxation of norms by the government has also created a vast opportunity for foreign players, who are competing for a greater role in the Indian market. Sectors projected to do well in the coming years include automotive, technology, life sciences and consumer products.

The HSBC's Services Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) touched a 17 month high at 54.4 points in June 2014 as compared to 50.2 points in May 2014, which is a positive sign for the services sector in India. Also, India made its entry into the club of the top 15 ultra-high-net-worth households (more than US$ 100 million in private financial wealth) in 2013 obtaining the 13th rank with 284 such households.

Further, there has been marked improvement in the hiring scenario in the country, as Naukri Job Speak Index for May 2014 showed a 14 per cent increase in hiring activity when compared to May 2013. Furthermore, the US$ 1.2 trillion investment that the government has planned for the infrastructure sector in the 12th Five-Year Plan is set to help in further improving the export performance of Indian companies and the Indian growth story, which will consequently improve the overall Indian economy.

Market size

India holds a 6.4 percent share of global gross domestic product (GDP) on purchasing power parity (PPP) basis and presently is the third biggest economy in the world in terms of PPP, according to a World Bank report. The industrial sector in India looks positive as industrial production grew at a 13-month high rate of 3.4 per cent in April 2014, driven mainly by electricity generation and manufacturing, as indicated by the Index of Industrial Production (IIP).

The trade and external sector showed improvement as exports posted double-digit growth in May, 2014, the highest in six months, as shipments of key commodities registered strong increases. According to a latest report by PricewaterhouseCoopers (PwC), India is all set to become the world's third largest economy by the year 2030.

Key Developments/ Investments

According to an HSBC report, Indian equities markets have seen foreign institutional investors (FII) net inflow of US$ 2.3 billion in May 2014, taking the total to US$ 7.8 billion so far in 2014. The report also quoted that India is still the most loved market in this region. There has been a number of investments and major developments in India in the recent past. Some of them are as follows:

- ◆ Overseas investors have invested around US$ 20.4 billion in the Indian market in the first half of 2014, mainly on hopes of a stable and reform-oriented government at the Centre. FIIs have helped in pushing up the benchmark BSE sensx by over 20 per cent in the first six months of the year.
- ◆ Six qualified institutional placements (QIPs) launched in India during April-June 2014 raised INR 12,151 crore (US$ 2.01 billion) compared with INR 1,222 crore (US$ 201.9 million) raised in the same quarter in 2013.
- ◆ Japan's Isuzu Motors aims to sell 50,000 pickup vehicles in India in the next few years to gain market leadership. The company, which has a fully owned subsidiary in Chennai, has earmarked INR 3,000 crore (US$ 495.66 million) for a 120,000-units-per-year manufacturing facility close by.

- ◆ Venture capital (VC) investments in India surged during the first half of 2014, reflecting optimism about India's entrepreneurial ecosystem. Investments in early stage companies and startups grew nearly 40 per cent as compared with the same period in 2013, according to data released by Ernst & Young (EY).
- ◆ Private equity (PE) firm SAIF Partners plans to make up to eight investments in FY 15 across different sectors, in an effort to significantly ramp up its investment pace in India and plan for more exits through the public market.
- ◆ Sovereign wealth funds (SWFs) and overseas pension funds plan to invest in India, driven by likelihood of economic recovery under a new stable government. At least three sovereign funds from West Asia have invested over US$ 5 billion in the past eight months.

Government Initiatives

India has become a promising investment destination for foreign companies looking to do business here, after the new government led by Mr Narendra Modi, Prime Minister of India took over, according to Mr Nitin Nohria, Dean, Harvard Business School (HBS). The Government of India has taken several initiatives to improve the Indian economy, which has been responsible for a number of positive outcomes.

India's foreign exchange reserves rose by US$ 857 million for the week ending on June 27, 2014, to touch US$ 315.78 billion, while foreign currency assets rose by US$ 851 million to reach US$ 288.81 billion. This can be attributed to the RBI announcing a few measures in its bi-monthly monetary policy which included a hike in the foreign exchange remittance limit to US$ 125,000 from the previous limit of US$ 75,000.

The Ministry of Development of North Eastern Region (DoNER) has sanctioned seven new projects worth INR 87.88 crore (US$ 14.52 million) in FY 15, which include projects for road construction, irrigation scheme and renewal of electric installations.

In order to better the ways of doing business, the Government of India has extended the validity period of an industrial license to three years from two years, with a provision for further extension by two years.

Road Ahead

The total value of India's listed companies is expected to cross the US$ 1.5 trillion mark within the next 12 months as India enters the top 10 club of countries by market capitalisation.

Also, India could become the world's seventh biggest nation in terms of private wealth, with a 150 per cent increase in total, from US$ 2 trillion in 2013 to US$ 5 trillion by 2018, as per a recent study by the Boston Consulting Group (BCG).

Thus, the Government of India's initiatives for improving trade and infrastructure can go a long way in improving the country's overall economy and make it a force to reckon with in the global economic scenario.
